Kasey has to stay a month, with old people, as the children's ward is having renovations. At first Kasey doesn't like to be around people. She thinks they are strange. Then she warms to them, as the story progresses. As she likes to say, being in the hospital is like being in a little village, with all the different characters you would meet. And we get to meet all the characters through her ...

After a bone scan, germophobe Kasey finds herself in the hospital with a serious disease ("osteo-something-something-itis"). She's hooked up to an IV (which she names "Ivy") for a lengthy course of antibiotics and anti microbial therapy. Then she's hit with even more bad news: she has to stay for a month – in the geriatric ward.
